Introduction

Advantage Preservation is the service we use to digitize and share our historical newspapers collection, town records, and more. The Amesbury Digitized Historical Newspapers are a rich source for genealogy and Amesbury history research. This database includes scans of the Amesbury News, town records, and more.

For access to historical Newburyport Daily News newspapers, see Newburyport Public Library's website.

This guide shows you how to search, download, print, and share content from the Amesbury Digitized Historical Newspapers. For additional assistance, contact the reference desk at 978-388-8148 ext. 619 or reference@amesburylibrary.org.

Locate Amesbury Digitized Historical Newspapers on Our Website

1. Start at our website: amesburylibrary.org
2. In the main menu, choose Discover, then Learn, then Online Resources.
3. Scroll down to Amesbury Digitized Historical Newspapers and click on the name. A new tab or window will open with the collection.

Search

Person, Place, or Event

1. To look for a person, place, or event, type the name in quotes into the first search box that says "Find People AND Places AND Events."
  - a. Example: for William Currier, type "William Currier" in the search box with quotation marks.
2. Hit the enter key on the keyboard, or click on the blue "Discover" button next to the search box.

Within a Date Range

1. To limit your results to a specific date range, start by entering your search words in the search box. (See Person, Place, or Event instructions if unfamiliar.)
2. From the drop-down menu that says "Between," choose if you want to search between a set of dates, or search for something before, after, or on a specific date.
3. In the next search box with the calendar icon (or set of boxes if "Between" is chosen), select or type in the dates for the range you want to search.
4. Hit the enter key on the keyboard, or click on the blue "Discover" button next to the search box.
